Domestic Violence Homicide Prevention Roundtable
Increasing Victim Safety in High Risk Domestic Violence Cases:
A Collaborative Community Approach to Intervention

APRIL 8, 2020 | 8:30AM-4:30PM
GATEWAY TECHNICAL COLLEGE – RACINE

The Domestic Violence Enhanced Response Team (DVERT) is a nationally recognized model of intervention that places an emphasis on identifying and providing coordinated, multi-disciplinary response to high-priority/high risk domestic violence cases. In this daylong workshop you will:

- learn more about the benefits of using a DVERT Project model in your community,
- develop tools to use towards implementation of the DVERT model, and
- come away with an understanding of how collaborative community response to domestic violence can increase survivor safety/engagement and work to hold abusers accountable for their choices.

During registration you will choose one of 3 breakout sessions described below:

- The Role of the District Attorney’s office in collaborative casework; victim advocacy through the Criminal Justice System; engaging survivors in the process (Role of DA)
- Confidentiality and Information Sharing; Benefits of Collaboration & Co-location; Creating MOU’s and Protocols/Policies for a DVERT Project Model (Confidentiality)
- Documentation when there is no arrest; Law Enforcement Agencies and Advocates; assessing for lethality in the field; engaging survivors in the process (Documentation)

Officer Lisa Fort

Officer Lisa Fort has been working in Law Enforcement for over 24 years. Lisa graduated cum laude as a two sport athlete from Central Missouri State University and started her career with the Oregon State Police working out of the Portland Command Office. Less than a year after graduating from the OSP Academy Officer Fort survived being shot twice by a lone gunman during a "routine" traffic stop. Her response during this crisis, her will to survive, and never-give-up attitude allowed her to render aide to her injured partner until help arrived, resulting in an Official Commendation from the Oregon State Police and the Medal of Honor from the Oregon Peace Officer Association.

While working for the State Police Officer Fort became an instructor for both Field Sobriety Testing and Drug Recognition Evaluators and was a member of the multi-agency Vehicular Homicide Team for several years.

In 2005 Officer Fort sought new challenges and joined the Portland police Bureau working on bicycle and horse patrol for her first 5 years. Officer Fort moved from here to work with the houseless population in inner SE Portland, coordinating government, private and public resources to assist with transitional housing options. In 2015 Officer Fort joined the Violation of Restraining Order/Gun Dispossession Team as a part of the Domestic Violence Reduction Unit and within a year was offered a position working on the Domestic Violence Enhanced Response Team, which continues to be her current passion. In addition to the above listed accomplishments, Officer Fort has been an active member of the Honor Guard Teams for both the Oregon State Police and the Portland Police Bureau for 22 years.
Traci Anderson is the Senior Deputy District Attorney for the Multnomah County District Attorney’s Office – Domestic Violence Unit. Ms. Anderson has prosecuted criminal cases of domestic violence since 1991. She is a local and national speaker, trainer and a subject matter expert for the American Prosecutors Association.

Ms. Anderson is the President of the Multnomah County Prosecuting Attorney’s Association, an Executive board member of the Family Violence Coordination Council and the Domestic Violence Fatality Review Board. She is the Co-Chair of the local chapter of the multi-jurisdictional team for domestic violence in the greater Portland-Metropolitan area. She received her Bachelor’s Degree in Economics from Portland State University and her J.D. from Willamette University College of Law.

Allison Wilson has been working in the field of social justice for the last 20 years, beginning as an advocate at a community based non-profit serving domestic & sexual violence survivors in rural Polk County, Oregon. Since moving to Portland, OR in 2004 she has spent her time advocating and working in the fields of child abuse prevention, domestic & sexual violence advocacy and community engagement.

Currently she is working as the Program Supervisor for the Domestic Violence Crisis Response Unit in Multnomah County. She spends this time coordinating the Domestic Violence Enhanced Response Team, a federally funded project that seeks to increase victim safety and offender accountability in high lethality DV cases through collaborative interagency response; supervising advocates collocated with local Law Enforcement Agencies and working to increase collaboration between criminal justice partners and community based service providers.

Additionally, Ms. Wilson has served as the Domestic Violence Fatality Review Coordinator for Multnomah County since 2013, convening elected officials, law enforcement and victim service providers to improve community response to domestic violence related fatalities.

Allison enjoys providing training for local Law Enforcement Officers regarding Assessing for Lethality in Domestic Violence Cases, training for advocates statewide in Oregon on Improving Collaboration with Criminal Justice Systems, and providing training nationally, in various jurisdictions who are seeking to increase their Collaborative Community Response Models and/or looking to implement Fatality Review Teams.
