

Using the Standards Search Feature

Educate.Today videos are searchable by standards of featured national curriculum organizations as well as standards of each state and the District of Columbia.

To Use the Standards Search Feature on the Home Page:

1. Click on the Standards button.
2. A search window will pop up on the page.
3. Choose a State or National Standards Organization to search for.
4. Select a subject for your search (not required but recommended to refine your search and reduce search time).
5. Select a grade level for your search (not required but recommended to refine your search and reduce search time).
6. Click on “Get Standard Numbers” and the Standards available for the state/organization, curriculum area, and grade level you chose will now available in the “Standard Number” drop down menu.
7. Choose the standard number you wish to search for.
8. Click on the “Search” button inside the pop up box
9. Your search results will appear.
10. If no videos appear for a particular standard, search by different standards and return to Educate.Today often as we are continually adding new videos to our library of resources.

To Use the Standards Search Feature on a Video Play Page:

1. Do a search for videos resources by keyword, curriculum area, and/or grade level.
2. Select a video to view.
3. When on the Video Play page of any video aggregated to standards, you will notice a drop down menu that is defaulted to Missouri Standards. Missouri Standards available for that video will appear on the page.
4. To select standards for another state or one of the national curriculum organizations we aggregate with, just click on the drop down menu and make your choice.
5. Once the new state or organization is selected, the search will automatically occur and standards for that state or organization will appear on the video play page.
6. If a video has not yet been aggregated to standards, no standards drop down menu will appear on the page. We are continually aggregating new videos to standards so return to Educate.Today often to see if a video you have viewed previously that did not have standards available, does have those standards available now.
7. Please note, it is also possible that a video on Educate.Today may not fit a standard of the particular state or organization you chose. If so, no standard will appear.
