1. Under Modi's leadership, Gujarat made land available for factories and redevelopment, but much of that land was made available by the forced relocation of poor families to tiny plots of land. How does Modi's claim that industrial growth will lift the poor contrast against the stories of forced relocation?
2. Critics of Modi's plan says it favors big business at the expense of the poor, especially those who lack education and healthcare. But Modi's party says that infrastructure and jobs will empower the poor and minorities. Consider those pressing needs. Which should be addressed first to eliminate poverty?
3. Since the broadcast of this report, how has construction and development come along and what might this project mean for the rest of the country?
4. What would "development for all" look like?
