

General questions

1. What problems can you identify in this story? Are solutions presented?
2. In what way might this story be relevant in your community?

Further exploration

1. Climate change seems like an intangible threat for many people, while for others it destroys their livelihood. How do environmental issues compound equity issues?
2. The Washington Post called this drought the worst crisis you have never heard of. Why don't you think it garnered more attention?
3. A majority of Somalis make their living by grazing animals. If climate change continues and droughts worsen how will Somali culture be impacted? What are some ways in which it can adapt to new climate conditions?