

General questions

1. What problems can you identify in this story? Are solutions presented?
2. In what way might this story be relevant in your community?

Further exploration

1. The legacy of apartheid is seen in South Africa's infrastructure which was only built to support the white minority population. Are there any historical inequalities still visible in your community?
2. How would a lack of water access impact your daily routine?
3. How does climate change compound issues of inequity?
4. When creating civil infrastructure, what ethical issues should engineers and city planners consider?
5. During water crises, restrictions like 2-minute showers are placed on water use. Should we be more efficient in our water use, even during normal times? Why or why not?